Glass Art® provides inspiration and education through the substantial profiles that are featured bimonthly. Artists, galleries, and educators from around the world share what works within their own studios and how they adapt to global shifts and trends, sharing lessons from their own successes and failures.

Whatever your role in the world of glass art, our goal is to help you gain valuable insights from the experience of your contemporaries across the industry and help you take your own glass business to greater success and reach new heights. In addition to these profiles, you will learn what others are doing in the world of glass art and tips to help you manage and market your own glass business. Also, keep up with the latest trends and events that are happening in the industry through the various associations. We are pleased to cover SGAA, SAMA, AGG, CGS, ISGB, and GAS regularly.
